

CSI Las Vegas May 13th Meeting

ARCHITECTURAL TITANIUM

Vicki Eudaly
Vice President and Consultant

The opening of Frank Gehry's first titanium project in 1997, the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao, sparked the use of titanium worldwide and set a course for the future of titanium in architecture. The first installation of titanium in Las Vegas will be completed this year with the installation of custom Crystal® Titanium on the new MGM Mandarin-Oriental Hotel.

Titanium is the metal of choice for the 21st century.

- Immune to environmental attack
- 100-year warranty (1,000 year life-cycle)
- Lowest thermal expansion
- Light weight
- High strength
- Environmentally friendly – totally inert

Vicki Eudaly is a lifelong resident of Lawrence, Kansas, with a background in design beginning at The University of Kansas. In 1986, along with Gary Nemchock, a new company was formed to develop and market custom architectural metals to the top architects in the world. Eleven years later, the company began working exclusively with titanium, as consultants to Titanium Metals Corporation. Today, Architectural Titanium works with a number of the top titanium producers in the world to provide the best product at the best price. Their personalized work with architects remains the same, offering expertise and support in design, specification, fabrication and construction.

The May 13 presentation for CSI Las Vegas will consist of a slide show with hundreds images of installations including museums, libraries, retail, commercial, government buildings, and custom residential installations. Samples of standard and custom architectural titanium finishes will be available for evaluation.
